

Training Experience

in Archaeological Field Methods

Bring your Enthusiasm —
Leave with a Career

Registration Starts
April 10, 2013

12-Week Field School May 20 - August 9, 2013

The Hocking College Archaeological Field School delivers real world application of archaeological method and theory to the business of Cultural Resources Management and Public Archaeology. Participants will train under the direction of experienced faculty; work with preservation partners and potential employers throughout the 12-week interval. The Hocking College Archaeology program is known for its successful training of field personnel and there is a high demand for career-minded graduates.

Participants will be trained in both prehistoric and historic archaeology; learn how to approach a federal undertaking to achieve the requirements of Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act; and master the skills of data collection and management, mapping techniques, navigation and artifact identification.

Participants will also actively organize and prepare public archaeology events as part of a service learning experience. Career opportunities will also be explored and assistance provided to search and jump start your career in archaeology.

Those who wish to join the Archaeology Laboratory for this seasons adventure will need to register for the following coursework:

ARCH 2201 Archaeological Field Methods I
ARCH 2210 Archaeological Field Methods II
Total Semester Credit Hours: 12

Complete your training by also enrolling in
ARCH 1104 Archaeology Lab Methods: Materials
Analysis, 3 credit hours

Projected Expenses:

Tuition for 12+ credit hours: $2095.50

Course Fees: $264 - $318

Participants must provide their own housing in or near Nelsonville, or Albany, Ohio and meals.

Required Personal Equipment: $350

For course details contact:

Dr. Annette G. Ericksen

614.271.3005, ericksena@hocking.edu

or Dawn Walter Gagliano

740.698.6373, ext. 6705, walter-gagliano@
hocking.edu

To register contact the Admissions Office at:

Hocking College

3301 Hocking Parkway

Nelsonville, Ohio 45764

877.HOCKING, Fax: 740.753.7065

admissions@hocking.edu

www.hocking.edu

Hocking.edu/applyyourpassion

